'PRINCE' IN SOUTH WAS 'VANDERBILT'

Was Recognized When He Appeared Second Time as "Dr. Van Buren"

"GOT ANY MORE SUCKERS?"

New York, Aug. 11.—Information concerning the doings of the notorious Prince Henri de Bourbon, who was reported to have been in New York in disguise yesterday from Atlantic seaboard States.

From Southern Pines, N. C., came word that the young pretender, Harold Schwarm, had appeared there last January, where, as "Harold G. Vanderbilt," had up for funds, he had been a waiter in a restaurant.

In the same town, said D. F. McAdam, manager of the Southern Pines Hotel, the "prince" worked as a bell-boy for the first three months of 1917 under the name of Harold Van Buren. His explanation was that he was working his way from New York to Florida on a wager.

Also "Idn of Dewey"

Greenville, Me., was another of many New England towns to report that Harold Schwarm had undoubtedly been in their midst. Positive identification of him from published photographs was made by the Sheriff of Piscataquis County as the young man who called himself Dr. Harold Dewey, a relative of Admiral Dewey.

Various persons in Maine, it was reported, were looking for the "Doc" to solve long. The "Kinsman" of Dewey was believed to be identical with the New York "Prince Henri de Bourbon," and the man who married a Dorchester girl as a physician, when he was a classmate at the Hospital for the Insane at Taunton, Mass. He arrived in Greenville in the middle of June.

The reported "unfortunate" girl, sister, who was married to the French heir, was reported to have been in the town of Greenville.

Wood Japanese Girl

At 263 Edgemoor avenue, in Harlem, where he gathered around himself a valet, a housekeeper, secretary and a one-armed waiter, the young disreputable "prince" let it be known that he was Sir Reginald Van de Vere, head surgeon of the Manhattan State Hospital, on Ward's Island.

Miss Caroline Long, of the Edgemoor avenue address, who knew the "prince" well, said yesterday that he had been highly attentive to a young Japanese girl who came to the house several times. He told persons there that she was his assistant at the hospital and was helping him conduct several medical experiments that were soon to startle the medical world.

He further told Miss Long that he intended to marry the Japanese.

Miss Long said:

"The supposed prince came to this address in January, 1921. He said an apartment from Mrs. N. Clarke and mailed a plate on the door reading, Sir Reginald Van de Vere. He seemed naturally equipped with funds, paid his rent promptly and was always immaculately dressed. At one time, however, he did attempt to borrow $100 from a tenant. He did not succeed.

"Any More Suckers?"

"On two occasions, having become suspicious of the fellow, two phone calls were intercepted. In one of them, a man on the other end of the wire asked the prince if he had got any more suckers. The prince warned this man that the phone was a public one and he should be more careful of his language.

"Another time, a woman spoke. She threatened to come up and tell the girl all about him. The doctor, however, managed to soothe her by his assurance that he would call on her at once."

She said after Van de Vere had said to her apartment, said Miss Long, the woman from whom he had stolen it went to the police to get some silver that she had lost there. In her search she also found a small skull in a bureau drawer.

Miss Long added:

"The topic on which he laid most stress was his part in the battle of Verdun, where he said he had been severely wounded. According to his story, he was returning from the first line trenches, going in the rear of an ambulance. A German shell burst nearby and a fragment struck him in the back of the head.

"The wound was a frightful one, he asserted, and a four-inch silver plate had to be inserted in his skull. He continually complained of severe headaches from the presence of this plate."

OAK IS 300 YEARS OLD

More Than 21 Feet in Circumference; Branches Spread 116 Feet

Harrisburg, Aug. 11.—A white oak tree believed to be at least 300 years old on the farm of Levi Maus Miller, in Adams County, has just been inspected and measured by J. S. Hildreth, Forest Ranger, Harrisburg, of the State Department of Forestry. The tree is thought to be the largest white oak in Southern Pennsylvania.

Eighteen inches from the ground it is twenty-one feet nine inches in circumference. It has a branch spread of more than 116 feet and is ninety-eight feet high. It has been in the possession of the Miller family four generations.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 237—A Feat of Strength

The drawer of a match box is set upon the cover, as shown in the illustration. Some one is told to break the box and the cover with a downward blow of the edge of the hand, a task which seems ridiculously simple.

The trick, however, is not so easy as it looks. The box and cover, instead of breaking, have a tendency to fly apart and jump in the air. In fact it is well to clear away all spectators when the attempt is about to be made, or some one is apt to be hit in the face.

With a little practice the performer can generally do the trick after the spectators have failed. In no strike the box and cover together, but hit them squarely. The spectators, in their futile efforts, will weaken the wood, so that a sharp, clean blow by the performer will accomplish the feat. The box, at the beginning should be in first-class condition.

BRITISH SHIP CAPTURED BY RUSSIANS AT BATUM

Americans and Other Passengers Transferred to French Vessel

Constantinople, Aug. 11.—The British steamship George was captured by the Bolsheviks at Batum last week. It was reported here yesterday. The passengers were held for three days, afterward being transferred to the French steamship Taulia.

Among the passengers were Dr. W. C. Einhardt, an American Episcopal missionary; his daughter and Miss Water, who accompanied a party of Near East Relief workers recently from the Caucasus. They were returning from a visit to Etchmiadzin.

TRUCK HITS EUGENE O'BRIEN

Film Actor Is in Critical Condition at Hollywood Hospital

Los Angeles, Aug. 11.—Eugene O'Brien, motion-picture actor, is in a critical condition in a Hollywood hospital with internal injuries and a possible fracture of the skull as a result of having been run down by a motor-truck last night while walking on a highway in the Hollywood hills.

The Japanese driver of the truck, who said he did not see O'Brien walking, took the actor to the hospital.

Advertising Service Man

A position as an advertising service man is open with a large Philadelphia organization. The man we need must be original in "copy" and illustrative ideas and a forceful, quick writer. He should have a knowledge of type faces, experience in ordering half-tone and line cuts, and the ability to make distinctive layouts quickly. His work will be done largely for local stores—large and small—with occasional preparation of newspaper advertising "copy" for national advertisers. He must be able to grasp the selling points of a proposition with one telling.

Did You Get the Bottom Price, After All?

The man who buys a "long discount" tire usually finds himself troubled by the above question. Did he pay less for the tire than his neighbor might have paid, or actually did he pay more?

Did he get the bottom price, when all is said and done, or could he perhaps have driven a sharper bargain?

Was the net price really more than he might have had to pay for a tire of established reputation and value?

In the belief that the average motorist prefers a frank and open transaction, we built the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord and discounted the "discount" in advance.

Instead of listing it at a high price, to enable the dealer to attract you with a so-called "long discount," we list it as low as we profitably can.

We build it of high-grade long-staple cotton, using the patented Goodyear method of group-ply construction, and sell it at a lower price than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown worth.
